

Formal minutes of consent orders (FCC – pending proceedings)

Note - For pending FCC proceedings, the parties should sign these formal minutes with two cover sheets in their lawyers' offices and file them (in the FCC). These minutes are usually prepared by the applicant's lawyer.

What to file in the FCC?

File (either in person or through your local agent) or post to the Registrar of your filing registry for filing:-

- the signed minutes and two cover sheets (together called a "draft Order") (see precedent below)
- a copy of the draft Order for each party, including any other party such as an independent children's lawyer (ICL)
- a covering letter, citing the name and court file number, in which you refer to the orders as being interim or final, as applicable, and request that sealed orders issue in due course
- (for a consent order splitting superannuation) an affidavit from a lawyer that the superannuation interest has been valued, and the superannuation trustee given procedural fairness (for an online precedent, see our "affidavit in support of superannuation split by consent")

Note – That affidavit sets out your obligations in the event of a consent order that includes the making of a splitting order.

- (for a parenting order) a copy of the brochure "Parenting orders – obligations, consequences and who can help" (available online from our website) which should be attached to the minutes.
